CARMEL — The town grows but still holds onto the village feeling, one of the prettiest places in America. Carmel is a good starting point to go south along the edge of the continent. Plenty of surfing shoreline all the way down into Baja California. There are State beach parks for camping. And a leisurely drive along here could make an inexpensive spring vacation.

"My travel agent says it is absolutely necessary to have advance reservations in capital cities of Europe, such as London, Rome, etc. in April-May. Do you think this is true?"

Sad to say I do think so. These cities always seem to be crowded.

"I plan to spend 4-5 weeks in Spain. One book says the main roads are good. Another says no new construction since the civil war. Roads pocked and driving slow."

I drove all over Spain a couple of years ago and found I could drive 40-50 miles per hour on main roads. Secondary roads are a little bumpy. True there isn't much new construction. But I saw many crews — very primitive, hand-and-donkey work. Wonderful driving country and not much traffic.

"How do we go about arranging a bon voyage party (our own) on the ship we are sailing on?"

Telephone the steamship line. They'll put you in touch with a department who

Discount Cards Now Available

Activity cards which entitle the holder to a discount on fees charged for Lomita Pre-Teen Dance Club events are now on sale at the Lomita Recreation Center, 24428 Eshelman Ave.

The Pre-Teen Dance Club was formed at the Recreation Center as an outgrowth of pre-teen dances which were begun last fall. The dances are held each Friday from 7 until 9 p.m.

First event for the pre-teen club will be a snow trip to Holiday Hill. Open to all Lomita pre-teens, the trip will cost $3.25 for non-card holders and $2.75 for those who have cards. A date for the trip will be set later.

Dances for holders of activities cards will be held throughout the year. Cards may be purchased at Friday's dance at the Community Building.

They'll serve glasses and setups and liquor by the bottle. Or you can bring your own. You don't get ship's duty-free liquor. It's locked up in port. You can have the party in your cabin. Or in one of the public rooms if you've invited a crowd.

"We are planning 3,000 miles of driving in Europe. Do you know whether a gasoline credit card can be arranged?"

I never asked for one. The AAA says no company does this. (That seemed so impossible that I called Shell Oil. They have stations all over Europe, good maps and touring information. But they say the same as AAA.)

"If we go to Europe in February (we must), is there some place to go to escape the cold weather? Spain? Portugal? Italy?"

I was freezing all over Europe one long winter. I finally found warmish weather down at Malaga on Spain's southern coast. But the only sure place I know of is the island of Madeira. Sub-tropical weather — you can swim. Two hours from Lisbon by air or overnight by boat. And it's inexpensive.

"Is there any advantage to buying French francs here rather than in France?"

No difference.

"Where do you recom-

end for two single girls on summer vacation?"

The beach at Waikiki.

"... some place outside Tokyo on the sea?"

I've been going to Atami, about an hour or so by fast electric train. It's on the Izu peninsula. It's popular. (It has hot springs as well as the sea.) A little on the Coney Island side — saki stands and souvenir stores. But it has a certain charm. A nice Japanese hotel is the Kiunkaku.

(It means Rising Clouds Mansion. And the owner has the delightful name of "Brilliant Moonlight.")

"We would like a private bath. I don't think we are sophisticated enough for the Japanese bath where they say everybody bathes at once."

You know, I've been LOOKING for one of those everybody-in-at-once baths. Still haven't found it. Private baths are not usual in Japan. You tell the maid when you want a bath, and she prepares it. A very large and beautiful room with a view of the garden. Plank floors and the steaming sunken bath. Custom is for husband and wife to bathe at the same time — there's plenty of room.
